Our Biggest Crop

THERE is a fat and useful little volume issued annually which keeps us informed on everything but our next door neighbor's income tax returns and the newest ping-pong rules. This volume states that corn is our biggest crop.

The only thing it doesn't tell us about corn is some of the ways to use it so as to get the biggest enjoyment out of this healthful grain.

Three Good Ways

Corn in Potato Nests: Add two tablespoons of butter and one-half teaspoon salt to two cups of hot mashed potatoes. Beat until fluffy. Add two well-beaten egg yolks and force through a pastry bag onto a greased pan, in the form of nests. Brown in a hot oven. Remove from the pan with a spatula and fill with hot, well-seasoned canned corn. Serve with fried chicken. This serves eight persons.

Mexican Corn: Sauté one medium-sized onion which has been chopped in two tablespoons of butter until it is golden brown. Add one tablespoon flour and stir until smooth. Add two cups of canned tomatoes, two cups of canned corn, two canned pimientos, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sage and one-eighth teaspoon pepper, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Cover thickly with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven. This serves eight persons.

Corn Oysters: Add to one cup of canned corn one tablespoon of melted butter, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and four tablespoons flour which has been mixed with one-eighth teaspoon baking powder. Add one beaten egg yolk and fold in one stiffly-beaten egg white. Drop by small spoonfuls into hot fat (375 to 390 degrees). Fry a golden brown; drain well. This makes about twenty small "oysters." Choose a solid pack of corn for this dish."

IN MEMORIUM

The Passing of Miss Deane Johns: Whereas, our esteemed friend and fellow teacher, Miss Deane Johns, has entered into rest, and,

Whereas, her memory is a constant inspiration to us;

Be it resolved: That we, the members of the Appomattox Educational Association regret the loss of one whose integrity could never be questioned; whose loyalty to a cause never wavered, and whose influence and untiring zeal have greatly promoted the growth and improvement of public education throughout this county and other places, particularly Paris, Texas.

That we sorely lament the severing of the close bonds of friendship established between us and keen. by the loss of her genial companion' ship and wise counsel.

That ys express our heartfelt gratitude for her comradeship and the splendid influence of her life; and,

Be it resolved urther that we express to the members of her family our sincere sympathy.
Com., Flora Belle Williams, ch.

IN MEMORIAM

Anna Hunter Howerton:

In sad, but loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who left us one year ago today, October 5, 1934:

We seem to see in the soft dim light
A face we loved the best;
And think of her when the sun's last ray,
Goes down in the far off west.
We miss you no less as the time passes on,
Than we did on the day of your going;
For absence can never close the doors of our hearts,
And the lamp of our love is still glowing.
Your heart was the truest in all the wide world,
Your love the best to recall;
For no one on earth can take your place,
Your are still the dearest of all.

Family Reunion

A family reunion was recently held at the home of S. M. Ranson a Confederate veteran, who is now ninety two years of age and enjoying fifty eight years of married life with his wife,Pocahontas Ranson, who is eighty seven years of age, both of whomseem to be confident that many more years of happy cohabitation are in store for them.

After the invocation by Reverend W. M. Black, of Pamplin, an excellent picnic dinner was served upon the lawn to the seventy five attending relatives, most of whom were from Appomattox county, however some were present from various cities throughout this and adjoining states.

The occasion was particularly enjoyed by H. F. Ranson and family, including the third generation, of Charleston, W. Va., who is a son of the brother of S. M. Ranson, but only recently has enjoyed the pleasure of personal acquaintance.

Everyone gave their hearty consent to a suggestion that the occasion be made an annual affair.

The More The Merrier

GOOD vegetables are so good that we want all we can get of them. Our systems want them—our health demands them.

Which is all very nice for everybody except the one who stews in the kitchen to get a meal, pares, scrapes carrots and husks corn. It is very nice to eat them, but you can only combine vegetables in so many ways to serve but with butter, or to toss into a crisp salad, or into a perfect omelet mingling with the eggness. You'll like them prepared in such ways as these:

Fall of Vitamins

Vegetable Spanish Rice: Cut two slices of bacon in small squares and fry. Remove from the fat and then sauté one cup of mixed vegetables which have been drained (and the liquor reserved) in the bacon fat for a few minutes. Then add the vegetable liquor and one and one-half cups of tomatoes. Season to taste with salt and pepper, simmer for a few minutes. Add two-thirds cup rice which has been boiled and drained, and pour into a baking dish. Cover with one-fourth cup grated cheese and bake for twenty-five to thirty minutes in a 375 degree oven. This serves six persons.

Vegetable Omelet: Make a French omelet using four eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains of pepper and four tablespoons milk. Meanwhile have ready a white sauce made with one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour and three-fourths cup of milk. Add one cup of canned mixed vegetables which have been drained, season with salt and pepper and heat thoroughly. Spread this over half the omelet just before folding. This serves four persons.

Quick Vegetable Soup: Simmer one slice of onion with one cup of canned tomatoes for five minutes. Press through a sieve. Add the contents of one can of consommé, one cup of canned mixed vegetables and one cup of water. Season to taste with salt and pepper and boil for several minutes."

THE WORK OF CREDIT

Bank Shows How It Gives Needed Aid to All Classes of Prudent Borrowers

How a bank loan portfolio presents a graphic cross section picture of the business of its community is disclosed in the description which a midwestern bank recently gave of its loans to customers. It revealed also how closely interwoven with its neighbors' varied lives are the threads of the bank's financial helpfulness.

This description showed that the bank had made a loan of $100,000 to a local shoe manufacturer to purchase materials, discount bills and meet current expenditures.

To a wholesale grocer $35,000 had been advanced for the purchase of inventory, the loan to be repaid over a period in accordance with specified terms set forth in the loan agreement.

Assistance to Personal Borrowers

Another loan had been made to a home owner to the amount of $200 for painting and repairing. This was made in cooperation with the Federal Housing Administration and was being repaid in twenty-four monthly installments of $8.33 each.

A dentist had been loaned $300 to purchase new equipment. He was paying off the debt out of his professional earnings as they came in.

To a grocer who sold refrigerator distributor $270.09 had been granted on warehouse receipts to finance dealer shipments.

A home owner had been granted a $2,000 mortgage loan to be repaid in three years.

One thousand dollars had been advanced to an office worker on the cash surrender value of his insurance policy to aid him in meeting an emergency.

The National Test

If each of these various examples were multiplied many times the result would represent the total volume of credit cooperation which the bank was extending to its neighbors in the community, for agricultural loans to all its customers amounted to more than twelve million dollars.

If the typical examples here given were multiplied by many millions of times the result would represent the total economic cooperation which the banking system of the country as a whole is extending to aid the innumerable personal, professional, industrial and commercial activities which make up the whole business life of the nation. The nationwide total of such loans is in excess of 20 billion dollars.

No Damaged Trees Should Be Saved

Drouth Victims Make Better Lumber or Fire Wood; Stock Injurious.

By L. E. Sawyer, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.—(NEA Service)

Few of the many trees damaged by last summer's drouth can be saved. The best procedure in most cases is to cut the trees for fire wood or lumber.

Where only a part of the top is dead, careful management may tide over the tree until new top growth and foliage are sufficient to support life and growth. The pruning should be done in the fall or early spring, followed up to make a good soil mulch and this supplemented by three or four inches of barnyard manure. All of the dead wood should be cut out of the top.

Where dead trees are removed this summer, plans should be made for replacements next spring. The trees should be planted after the frost goes out of the ground and before growing season gets under way in 1936.

Damage done by the drouth drove home the fact that live stock should be kept out of the wood lot. Live stock damage to trees is not apparent in wet years, but the accumulated damage of many seasons shows up in dry years like 1934. In fact, the worst damage last year was invariably in wood lots used as live stock pasture. Live stock keeps the undergrowth eaten and trampled down, letting winds get a better sweep close to the ground. This causes the ground to dry out rapidly. In addition, the ground is packed hard by the constant trampling, and organic matter and natural mulch are destroyed. The result is that the rainfall runs off the ground rather than soaking in. Evaporation is speeded up by a lack of mulch.

When apple trees receive proper fertilizer and cultural care they will produce every year under favorable weather conditions.

If it fails to flush out waste and excess acids which cause bladder irregularity. Take Buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc. in little green tab lets called BUKETS. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Soothy acting bladder can cause scanty flow, frequent desire, burning or backache. In four days if not pleased any druggist will refund your 25c.

Chas. F. James, Druggist
Appomattox, Va.

Notice

We will send the Times Virginian to school children or to those teaching away from home for $1 for the nine month session. There is no better way to keep them posted as to what is going on "back home." It will be the most appreciated letter of the week for them. You just couldn't write in a letter all the local events published in the home county paper.
